

ITAX - ITALIAN EDUCATION ABROAD

ITAX100 Introduction to Italian Language and Culture (3 Credits)

Open to students with no previous training in Italian, the course introduces features of the Italian language needed for interaction in everyday practical situations, such as the cafe, restaurant, accommodation and in shops. The course satisfies a limited number of immediate needs necessary for survival in the target language culture. Cultural topics, such as Italian gestures, the Italian family, the working world, religion, and women in Italy, will also be studied in order to familiarize the student with certain aspects of contemporary Italian society and culture.

Additional Information: This course is offered as part of the Maryland-in-Rome study abroad program. Students must apply for this program through Education Abroad: More information at ter.ps/UMRome. Education Abroad processes registrations for this course on behalf of students.

ITAX101 Living Perugia: Elementary Language, Culture, and Reflection (4 Credits)

The specific goals of the introductory course is to give students a basic lexicon to interact with everyday life, events and activities of their new host country, while at the same time teaching them the key building blocks of Italian grammar. The central objectives are therefore to provide students with the necessary tools by which they can engage - little by little - with the local community in a meaningful way, and to stimulate students to observe and reflect upon various aspects of the new culture surrounding them.

Credit Only Granted for: ITAL169 or ITAX101.

Formerly: ITAL169.

Additional Information: This course is offered as part of the Maryland-in-Perugia study abroad program. Students must apply for this program through Education Abroad: More information at ter.ps/UMPerugia. Education Abroad processes registrations for this course on behalf of students.

ITAX103 The Florence Experience I (4 Credits)

Students will develop basic cultural and linguistic/communicative competences (speaking, writing, reading and understanding) in Italian through an interdisciplinary experience. Introduces students to various aspects of contemporary Florentine life and Italian culture via field trips, interviews with local Florentines, and cultural activities facilitated by professional directors and playwrights.

Additional Information: This course is offered as part of the Maryland-in-Florence study abroad program. Students must apply for this program through Education Abroad: More information at <https://globalmaryland.umd.edu/offices/education-abroad/program/11293>. Education Abroad processes registrations for this course on behalf of students.

ITAX110 Introduction To Italian Language and Culture (3 Credits)

Introduces features of the Italian language needed for interaction in everyday practical situations, such as the cafe, restaurant, accommodations and in shops. Equips students with necessary skills for survival in the target language culture. Cultural topics, such as Italian gestures, the Italian family, the working world, religion, and women in Italy, are studied in order to familiarize the student with certain aspects of contemporary Italian society and culture.

Credit Only Granted for: ITAL169R or ITAX110.

Additional Information: This course is offered as part of the Maryland-in-Rome study abroad program. Students must apply for this program through Education Abroad: More information at ter.ps/UMRome. Education Abroad processes registrations for this course on behalf of students.

ITAX201 Cultural Diversity in Italy (3 Credits)

The different practices and experiences of cultural diversity and its challenges in contemporary Italy. The course will analyze the transition of Italy from a country of emigration to a country of both emigration and immigration.

Additional Information: This course is offered as part of the Maryland-in-Rome study abroad program. Students must apply for this program through Education Abroad: More information at ter.ps/UMRome. Education Abroad processes registrations for this course on behalf of students.

ITAX301 Florence: The Story of the City (3 Credits)

Explores how the history of Florence is highly representative of the history of Italy as the cradle of many philosophical, artistic, and political ideas that were key in shaping the Western World. Students in this course will visit both well-known and hidden landscapes of Florence, identify its most celebrated spaces, and understand how the city has changed and how it has been shaped by the character of its people.

Additional Information: This course is offered as part of the Maryland-in-Florence study abroad program. Students must apply for this program through Education Abroad: More information at <https://globalmaryland.umd.edu/offices/education-abroad/program/11293>. Education Abroad processes registrations for this course on behalf of students.

ITAX302 History of Fashion (3 Credits)

Creativity, a taste for beauty, tradition and imagination have always been part of Italian culture, being key factors in the shaping of its extraordinary artistic heritage, and in the emergence of a specifically Italian style. Students will explore the evolution of Italian Fashion from the fourteenth century through a multi-faceted approach that includes site visits and considers the impact of gender and political structures, Renaissance art, the Florentine silk economy, the emergence of writings on Fashion and style, design experiments connected to the birth of Opera, and Hollywood and Cinecitta industries on clothing, costume, style, and production in our time. Course is taught in English.

Additional Information: This course is offered as part of the Maryland-in-Florence study abroad program. Students must apply for this program through Education Abroad: More information at <https://globalmaryland.umd.edu/offices/education-abroad/program/11293>. Education Abroad processes registrations for this course on behalf of students.

ITAX304 The History and Culture of Food in Italy (3 Credits)

Explores the history of food in Italy as a gateway to understanding present Italian culture. Students will examine the factors that have shaped Italian food, cuisine, and taste, the variations in eating habits of different socio-economic classes, and the essential role played by food in constructing Italian identities to shed light on fundamental patterns in Italian history and society.

Additional Information: This course is offered as part of the Maryland-in-Perugia study abroad program. Students must apply for this program through Education Abroad: More information at ter.ps/UMPerugia. Education Abroad processes registrations for this course on behalf of students.